1 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

2 I. INTRODUCTION

3 By any measure, this Settlement is a success for the Settlement Class and general public. In 4 contrast to the often-criticized “coupon” settlements, this Settlement secured a cash Settlement Fund of 5 $2.3 million plus $300,000 in notice and administration for total settlement amount of $2.6 million.
6 None of the $2.6 million will revert to Defendant Elixir Cosmetics. Along with the injunctive relief to 7 the labeling and advertising of the Products, the Settlement fulfills the purposes of the consumer 8 protection laws by both halting the alleged unfair business practice and providing consumers the 9 opportunity to claim restitution.

10 This is not a case that has dragged on for years, only for the Class to recover pennies on the 11 dollar. In fact, given the total sales at issue, the amount of the cash fund secured by Class Counsel is 12 proportional to the amount of the settlement fund approved in Lash Boost Cases (JCCP No. 4981), 13 which involved that sale of similar lash and brow products. The Lash Boost result took nearly five 14 years to obtain. Here, however, Class Counsel secured this settlement at an early stage of the action in 15 a structure that maximized recovery for Class Members and avoided many potential pitfalls for the 16 Class at the pleading stage, at class certification, and on the merits—each of which would have 17 afforded Elixir the chance to limit the amounts Class Members could ultimately recover at trial or 18 escape liability altogether.

19 Prosecuting the claims in this case required a high degree of skill, expertise, and diligence in 20 the face of serious risks and legal challenges by Defendant. This is particularly true given Elixir 21 contends that the Ninth Circuit’s recent decision in Nexus Pharms., Inc. v. Central Admixture Pharm.
22 Servs., Inc., 148 F. 4th 1040 (9th Cir. 2022) supports its argument that Plaintiff’s state law claims are 23 preempted by the Federal Food, Drug & Cosmetic Act (“FDCA”). That argument could have 24 completely derailed this case at the outset. See, e.g., Wilson v. Colourpop Cosmetics, LLC (N.D.Cal.
25 Sep. 6, 2023, No. 22-cv-05198-TLT) 2023 U.S.Dist.LEXIS 185688 (dismissing cosmetics action as 26 preempted by FDCA).

27 Class action lawyers should be incentivized to obtain such results, and, while courts should not 28 award plaintiffs’ counsel a “windfall”, they nevertheless should reward the efficiency and results of

1 Class Counsel as achieved here. For the reasons set forth herein, Class Counsel's request for attorneys' 2 fees in the amount of $800,000 (30% of the total settlement fund) and costs in the amount of $1,990.24
3 is appropriate under the percentage of the fund and lodestar-multiplier crosscheck. In addition, a 4 service award to Plaintiff in the amount of $2,500 should be approved as fair and reasonable.

5 II. BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE SETTLEMENT BENEFITS OBTAINED

6 As fully discussed in the motion for preliminary approval (and the forthcoming motion for final 7 approval), the Settlement¹ provides substantial benefits to Settlement Class members in the form of 8 cash payments, injunctive relief, and a broad class notice program, all in the face of substantial risks to 9 no recovery at all. See Declaration of Peter J. Farnese ("Farnese Decl.") at ¶5.

10 Cash Benefit Fund and Class Notice and Administration

11 Defendant will establish a $2,300,000 non-reversionary Cash Settlement Fund to provide for 12 Settlement Class Members who make timely and valid claims for Cash Benefits, Class Representative 13 Service Payments, and Plaintiffs' Counsel's Fees and Expenses. at ¶6. On top of the Cash Settlement 14 Fund, Defendant will separately pay all notice and administration expenses up to $300,000 (plus any 15 additional postage). Id. Authorized Claimants located in Defendant's records or who provide a Proof 16 of Purchase are eligible to claim a Cash Benefit of up to $25 per unit of Products purchased. Id. at ¶8.
17 Authorized Claimants without a Proof of Purchase are limited to a maximum Cash Benefit of up to 18 $25.00 per household. Id.

19 Thus, the Total Settlement Fund provided by the Settlement is $2.6 million. The Settlement 20 Administrator has advised that notice and administration costs to date are $340,071.77, including 21 postage. Id. at ¶7. In other words, Defendant will pay at least $2,640,071.77 in this Settlement.

22 Advertising and Labeling Changes

23 Within sixty (60) days after the Settlement Date, Defendant will make the label changes 24 reflected in Exhibit F to the Settlement Agreement to Products currently in production, along with 25 changes to Defendant's website and training contemplated by Exhibit F. Id. at ¶9.

27 ¹ Unless otherwise noted, all capitalized terms have the meaning assigned to them in the Settlement Agreement.
28

1 III. ARGUMENT

2 A. Class Counsel Is Entitled to an Award of Attorneys' Fees

3 Given the benefits provided by this Settlement, Class Counsel is entitled to an award of 4 attorney's fees under the both the common fund / substantial benefit doctrine and the "private attorney 5 general" doctrine. Counsel who represent a class and produce a benefit for the class members are 6 entitled to be compensated for their services. As stated by the United States Supreme Court, "this 7 Court has recognized consistently that a litigant or a lawyer who recovers a common fund for the 8 benefit of persons other than himself or his client is entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee from the 9 fund as a whole." Boeing Co. v. Van Gernert, (1980) 444 U.S. 472, 478. This rule, known as the 10 "common fund doctrine," has been firmly rooted in American case law for well over a century. See, 11 e.g., Internal Imp. Fund Trustees v. Greenough (1881) 105 U.S. 527 26; Central R.R. & Banking Co. v.
12 Pettus (1885) 113 U.S. 116, 123. Under the "common fund doctrine" a reasonable fee may be based 13 "on a percentage of the fund bestowed to the class." Blum v. Stenson, (1984) 465 U.S. 886, 900 n. 16.
14 The purpose of this doctrine is that "those who benefit from the creation of a fund should share the 15 wealth with the lawyers whose skill and effort helped create it." In re Washington Power Supply
16 System Sec. Litig. ("WPPSS"), (9th Cir. 1994) 19 F.3d 1291, 1300. In other words, the common fund 17 doctrine/percentage approach "spread[s] litigation costs proportionally among all the beneficiaries so 18 that the active beneficiary does not bear the entire burden alone." (Vincent v. Hughes Air West, Inc.
19 (9th Cir. 1977) 557 F.2d 759, 769.)

20 Likewise, Class Counsel's fees and costs are also recoverable "private attorney general" theory 21 pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure §1021.5. Serrano v. Priest (1977) 20 Cal.3d 25, 49. Fees and 22 reasonable litigation costs are awardable under the "private attorney general" doctrine embodied in 23 §1021.5 where: (1) the claims litigated by counsel have vindicated an important right affecting the 24 public interest has been enforced; (2) a significant benefit has been conferred on the general public or a 25 large class of persons; and (3) the necessity and financial burden of private enforcement are such that 26 an award is appropriate, and, in the interest of justice, the fee should not be paid out of the recovery.
27 Beasley v. Wells Fargo Bank (1991) 235 Cal.App.3d 1407, 1413. This action and the proposed 28

1 Settlement have vindicated important consumer rights and conferred important benefits on thousands 2 of purchasers of the Products, as well as the general public.

3 B. The Requested Fee Is Fair and Reasonable

4 There are “[t]wo primary methods of determining a reasonable attorney fee in class action 5 litigation.” Laffitte v. Robert Half Int’l Inc. (2016) 1 Cal.5th 480, 489. First, the “percentage method 6 calculates the fee as a percentage share of a recovered common fund or the monetary value of 7 plaintiffs’ recovery.” Id. In the alternative, “the lodestar-multiplier method[] calculates the fee by 8 multiplying the number of hours reasonably expended by counsel by a reasonable hourly rate,” a figure 9 that the court may then “increase or decrease . . . by applying a positive or negative ‘multiplier’ to take 10 into account a variety of other factors.” Id. (citation omitted); see also Wershba v. Apple Computer, 11 Inc., (2001) 91 Cal. App. 4th 224, 254 (“Courts recognize two methods for calculating attorney fees in 12 civil class actions: the lodestar/multiplier method and the percentage of recovery method”).
13 Regardless of whether attorneys’ fees are determined using the lodestar method or awarded based on a 14 “percentage-of-the-benefit” analysis under the common fund doctrine, “[t]he ultimate goal . . . is the 15 award of a ‘reasonable’ fee to compensate counsel for their efforts, irrespective of the method of 16 calculation.” [Citations.]” Apple Computer, Inc. v. Superior Court (2005) 126 Cal.App.4th 1253, 1270.

17 California courts, including the Supreme Court, have approved a percentage-based fee in 18 common-fund settlements like this one. See Laffitte, 1 Cal.5th at 503; see also Chavez v. Netflix, Inc.
19 (2008) 162 Cal. App. 4th 43 (“[F]ees based on a percentage of the benefits are in fact appropriate in 20 large class actions....”); Vizcaino v. Microsoft Corp., (9th Cir. 2002) 290 F.3d 1043, 1050 (“[t]he 21 primary basis of the fee award remains the percentage method.”).

22 Here, the $2.6 million Total Settlement Fund constitutes a common fund. It is the total amount 23 that Elixir will pay in settlement of this action, it will not revert to Elixir, and it is the money out of 24 which Plaintiff’s Counsel will be awarded fees and costs. See Serrano v. Priest (1997) 20 Cal.3d 25, 25 34 (“[W]hen a number of persons are entitled in common to a specific fund, and an action brought by a 26 plaintiff or plaintiffs for the benefit of all results in the creation or preservation of that fund, such 27 plaintiff or plaintiffs may be awarded attorney’s fees out of the fund.”). Here the Cash Settlement 28 Fund ($2.3 million) and the notice and administration costs ($300,000 plus postage) equals a “certain

1 or easily calculable sum of money.” Id. at 35; cf Laffitte, 1 Cal.5th at 503 (stating that a common fund is 2 not created when counsel is paid apart from the settlement fund or when portions of the fund that are “not 3 distributed in claims revert to the defendant or be distributed to a third party or the state, making the fund’s 4 value to the class depend on how many claims are made and allowed”).

5 Accordingly, Plaintiff’s Counsel seeks fees under the percentage method. Should the Court 6 decide to engage in a lodestar cross-check, that analysis too confirms that the requested fee award is 7 reasonable.

8 1. The Requested Fee Is Reasonable as a Percentage of the Total Settlement
9 Fund / Benefits

10 The requested award in the amount of approximately 30% of the Total Settlement Fund² fairly 11 and reasonably compensates Plaintiff’s counsel for their success achieved for the Settlement Class, and 12 their investment of significant resources in this case with the risk of no recovery. It is consistent with 13 fees awarded by California courts in other common-fund class actions.

14 California courts have recognized that the custom and practice in class actions is to award 15 approximately one-third of a fund as a fee award. See Chavez v. Netflix, Inc. (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 16 43, 66, n.11. The Court of Appeal noted in Chavez that: “Empirical studies show that, regardless 17 whether the percentage method or the lodestar method is used, fee awards in class actions average 18 around one-third of the recovery.”); see also Laffitte, 1 Cal.5th at 503-04 (affirming an award of one-19 third of a $19 million fund).

20 In sum, Class Counsel’s fee request (30% of the non-reversionary Total Settlement Fund) is in 21 line with the prevailing guidelines established in California case law and academic literature and is 22 consistent with awards in California.

24 ² The Court should also consider the value of the injunctive relief. See Pokorny v. Quixtar, Inc., (N.D. Cal. July 18, 2013)
25 2013 WL 3790896, at *1 (“The court may properly consider the value of injunctive relief obtained as a result of settlement 26 in determining the appropriate fee.”). Although Plaintiff does not propose to calculate any specific monetary value of the 27 proposed injunctive relief, the relief is significant not just to the Settlement Class, but to the public at large. Courts have 28 recognized that “there is a high value to the injunctive relief [resulting] in [n]ew labeling practices” because such relief confers benefits not just to Class Members, but to “the marketplace and competitors who do not mislabel their products.”
Bruno v. Quten Research Inst., LLC, (C.D. Cal. Mar. 13, 2013) 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 35066, at *10.

1 2. A Lodestar Cross-Check Confirms the Requested Fee is Reasonable

2 While a “lodestar cross-check” on a percentage award is not required, “trial courts have 3 discretion to conduct” one “on a percentage fee.” Laffitte, 1 Cal.5th at 506. In a lodestar cross-check, 4 the initial lodestar is calculated by multiplying the reasonable hours expended in the action by a 5 reasonable hourly rate for each attorney. Lealao v. Beneficial Cal., Inc. (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 19, 26-6 27. After the court has calculated the lodestar, “it may increase or decrease that amount by applying a 7 positive or negative ‘multiplier’ to take into account a variety of other factors.” Laffitte, 1 Cal.5th at 8 506. The purpose of the multiplier is to fix the attorneys’ fees at the fair market value for that action.
9 See Ketchum v. Moses, (2001) 24 Cal.4th 1122, 1133 (“A lawyer who bears both the risk of not being 10 paid and provides legal services is not receiving the fair market value of his work if he is paid only for 11 the second of these functions.”). “In effect, the court determines, retrospectively, whether the litigation 12 involved a contingent risk or required extraordinary legal skill justifying augmentation of the 13 unadorned lodestar in order to approximate the fair market rate for such services.” See id.

14 In determining the amount of the multiplier, the Court is guided by the factors set forth in 15 Serrano v. Priest 20 Cal.3d 25 (1971), which include: (1) the benefits conferred on the class; (2) the 16 novelty and difficulty of the issues involved and the skill displayed in presenting them; (3) the extent 17 to which the nature of the litigation precluded other employment; and (4) the contingent nature of the 18 fee award. See id. at 49.

19 “[T]rial courts conducting lodestar cross-checks have generally not been required to closely 20 scrutinize each claimed attorney-hour, but have instead used information on attorney time spent to 21 focus on the general question of whether the fee award appropriately reflects the degree of time and 22 effort expended by the attorneys.” Laffitte, 1 Cal.5th at 505 (quoting 5 Newberg on Class Actions § 23 15:86). Thus, the Court may properly perform a lodestar cross-check based on information about 24 lodestar provided in counsels’ declarations. See id. (noting that the trial court had “exercised its 25 discretion” by “performing the cross- check using counsel declarations summarizing overall time
26 spent”); see also Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 224, 255 (“California case 27 law permits fee awards in the absence of detailed time sheets.”).

1 First, for the purpose of the cross-check, Plaintiff's Counsel has used the hourly rates as 2 recently approved in the Lash Boost Cases matter and as set by the Adjusted Laffey Matrix. See 3 Farnese Decl. at ¶¶33-36, Ex. 2. These rates are reasonable and comparable to those generally 4 charged by attorneys with similar experience, ability, and reputation for work on similar matters in 5 California. See Farnese Decl. ¶¶37-39; Exs. 3-4. Further, the hours expended (381.3 – including 6 paralegal time) are reasonable. Class Counsel's pre-filing investigation placed them in a position to 7 efficiently prosecute this action and negotiate a favorable settlement for the Class at the outset of the 8 case. In that regard, counsel did not undertake extraneous work to try to "pad" any attorneys' fees.
9 Moreno v. City of Sacramento (9th Cir. 2008) 534 F.3d 1106, 1112 ("It must also be kept in mind that 10 lawyers are not likely to spend unnecessary time on contingency fee cases in the hope of inflating their 11 fees. The payoff is too uncertain, as to both the result and the amount of the fee."). In fact, the exact
12 opposite is the case here-- Class Counsel conducted an extensive pre-filing background investigation 13 and skillfully obtained a settlement at an early stage of the action.

14 a. The Multiplier is Within the Range Commonly Applied by Both 15 California and Federal Courts

16 For contingent consumer class actions like this one, California courts have approved fee awards 17 with multipliers from 2 to 4 and even higher. See, e.g., Wershba, 91 Cal. App. 4th at 255 ("Multipliers 18 can range from 2 to 4 or even higher."); Chavez, 162 Cal. App. 4th at 66 (same). Similarly, in the 19 Ninth Circuit, multipliers "ranging from one to four are frequently awarded [...] when the lodestar 20 method is applied." Vizcaino, 290 F.3d at 1051 n.6 (internal quotation marks omitted); see also Van 21 Vranken v. Atl. Richfield Co., (N.D. Cal. 1995) 901 F. Supp. 294, 298–99 (holding that multiplier of 22 3.6 was "well within the acceptable range for fee awards in complicated class action litigation" and 23 explaining that "[m]ultipliers in the 3–4 range are common")³. Here, counsel's lodestar, when

26 ³ In fact, it has been found an abuse of discretion not to apply a multiplier in certain matters. Fischel v.
27 Equitable Life Assur. Soc'y of U.S., (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 997, 1008 ("It is an abuse of discretion to fail to apply a risk 28 multiplier, however, when (1) attorneys take a case with the expectation that they will receive a risk enhancement if they prevail, (2) their hourly rate does not reflect that risk, and (3) there is evidence that the case was risky").

1 compared to the percentage fee, yields a multiplier of 2.57. This multiplier is well-within the range of 2 approval and, as described below is appropriate under the relevant factors.

3 b. Class Counsel Conferred a Significant Benefit on a Large Class of 4 Persons

5 The total value of the benefits to the class, i.e. the “success achieved,” includes all of the 6 positive results achieved by the litigation. See Chavez, 162 Cal.App.4th at 61 (explaining that the 7 “success achieved” in a class settlement includes, inter alia, the dollar value of the settlement, the 8 absolute size of the class of persons who are eligible for the benefit, and changes in company policies).

9 As described above, the result achieved for the Class is exceptional. The immediate monetary 10 relief afforded to the Class, alongside changes to the Products’ future packaging and advertising, 11 demonstrates the significant value of the Settlement. On top of the monetary relief, Class Counsel 12 ensured that the vast majority of the Class received a direct email or mail notice and that the Settlement 13 was well-publicized.

14 c. The Novelty and Difficulty of the Issues Presented and Counsel’s
15 Skill

16 This was not a run-of-the-mill class action. This was a large, complex class action that raised 17 questions about the legal status and likely effects of ICP, the prostaglandin analog in the Babe Lash
18 and Brow products. Understanding the scientific underpinnings of the Plaintiff’s claims raised complex 19 legal questions on the merits as well as class certification, in particular, how a price premium may be 20 ascertained on a class basis. Most pointedly, this action raised complicated legal issues as what 21 constitutes a drug under state and federal law-- which invariably raised threshold issues related to 22 federal preemption and primary jurisdiction as well as the intricacies FDA regulations.

23 These are all issues that required skill by Class Counsel to navigate to achieve a recovery for 24 the Class. See In re Omnivision Techs., Inc. (N.D. Cal 2008) 559 F. Supp. 2d. 1036, 1047 (The 25 litigation of a complex, multiparty, nationwide class action “requires unique legal skills and abilities.”) 26
27
28

1 d. The Extent to Which the Nature of the Litigation Precluded Other
2 Employment

3 From the very beginning, this nationwide class action has demanded a great deal of attention 4 from Class Counsel. Due to the considerable expenditure of time, effort and resources – including 5 significant pre- and post-filing investigations, consultation with experts– Plaintiff’s counsel, a solo 6 practitioner, was required to forego other paid hourly employment in order to commit the necessary 7 resources to the prosecution of this case. See Farnese Decl. at ¶48. Moreover, Class Counsel will 8 devote additional time and resources to this litigation assisting class members in the settlement claims 9 process, monitoring the claims process and notice plan, responding to class member inquiries, 10 preparing final approval briefing and attending the fairness hearing. This factor, too, supports a 11 multiplier.

12 e. The Contingent Nature of the Fee Award

13 Courts recognize that fee enhancements are “necessary” to compensate for the risk of loss in 14 contingency cases brought on behalf of a class. Pellegrino v. Robert Half Int’l, Inc. (2010) 182 15 Cal.App.4th 278, 292. By choosing to litigate a large-scale class action against Defendant involving 16 complex issues and claims, Plaintiff’s counsel assumed significant risk. “It is an established practice 17 in the private legal market to reward attorneys for taking the risk of non-payment by paying them a 18 premium over their normal hourly rates for ... contingency cases.” In re Wash. Pub. Power Supply Sys.
19 Sec. Litig. (9th Cir. 1994). 19 F.3d 1291, 1299.

20 Class Counsel prosecuted this case on a contingent basis. See Farnese Decl. at ¶¶46-47.
21 Throughout this case, Class Counsel has expended substantial time and resources (that precluded paid 22 hourly work) to prosecute this suit with no guarantee of compensation or reimbursement of prevailing 23 against a sophisticated, well-financed Defendant represented by high caliber attorneys at the Locke 24 Lord law firm. In re Toyota Motor Corp. Unintended Acceleration Mktg., Sales Practices, & Prods.
25 Liab. Litig. (C.D. Cal. July 24, 2013) 2013 WL 12327929, at *32 (holding that the skill of counsel 26 factor “weighs in favor of approving the entire proposed fee award” when “class counsel faced an 27 exceptionally skilled adversary with substantial resources.”).

28 Class Counsel obtained a superior result for the Settlement Class, knowing that if its efforts

1 were ultimately unsuccessful, counsel would receive no compensation or reimbursement for its costs.
2 As discussed above, the lack of any “clear sailing” clause on attorneys’ fees demonstrates that this risk
3 continued even after the parties have reached the proposed settlement in this action. This fact alone 4 supports the reasonableness of the fee request.

5 C. Class Counsel Should Be Awarded Reimbursement of Its Costs

6 Class Counsel is entitled to reimbursement for standard out-of-pocket expenses that an attorney 7 would ordinarily bill a fee-paying client. See, e.g., Harris v. Marhoefer, (9th Cir. 1994) 24 F.3d 16, 19.
8 “Expenses such as reimbursement for travel, meals, lodging, photocopying, long-distance telephone 9 calls, computer legal research, postage, courier service, mediation, exhibits, document scanning, and 10 visual equipment are typically recoverable.” Rutti v. Lojack Corp., Inc., (C.D. Cal. July 31, 2012) 2012 11 WL 3151077, at *12.

12 Here, Class Counsel seeks $1,990.24 in costs. Farnese Decl. at ¶44, Ex. 5. Each of these 13 expenses was necessary and reasonably incurred to bring this case to a successful conclusion and is 14 typically recoverable in litigation. Plaintiff’s counsel will incur additional costs between now and the 15 end of settlement administration, but ask only that costs be awarded up to the present. This makes an 16 already-reasonable request for costs only more so.

17 D. The Service Award to Plaintiff Should Be Approved

18 Under California law, it is well-established that named class representatives are eligible for 19 reasonable incentive awards. See Munoz v. BCI Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Los Angeles (2010) 186
20 Cal.App.4th 399, 412; In re Cellphone Fee Termination Cases (2010) 186 Cal.App.4th 1380, 1393
21 (hereinafter “Cellphone Cases”); Clark v. American Residential Services LLC (2009) 175 22 Cal.App.4th 785, 804-06; Bell v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (2004) 115 Cal.App.4th 715, 726⁴. “[T]he 23 rationale for making enhancement or incentive awards to named plaintiffs is that they should be 24 compensated for the expense or risk they have incurred in conferring a benefit on other members of 25 the class.” Clark, 175 Cal.App.4th at 806; see also Munoz, 186 Cal.App.4th at 412.

26
27
28 ⁴ See also William B. Rubenstein et al., Newberg on Class Actions § 11:38 (4th ed. 2008).

1 In determining the amount of such an award, courts may consider the following criteria: 1) the 2 risk to the class representative in commencing suit, both financial and otherwise; 2) the notoriety and 3 personal difficulties encountered by the class representative; 3) the amount of time and effort spent by 4 the class representative; 4) the duration of the litigation; and 5) the personal benefit (or lack thereof)
5 enjoyed by the class representative as a result of the litigation. See Cellphone Cases, 186 Cal.App.4th 6 at 1394-95 (citing Van Vranken v. Atlantic Richfield Co. (N.D. Cal. 1995) 901 F.Supp. 294, 299); see
7 also Wong v. Arlo Techs. Inc., (N.D. Cal. Apr. 19, 2021) 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 58514, 2021 WL 8 1531171, at *12 (“Service awards as high as $5,000 are presumptively reasonable in this judicial 9 district.”).

10 Here, Plaintiff faced financial risk in the form of the cost burden if this matter was 11 unsuccessful. Though her retainer agreement provides that Class Counsel would advance such 12 litigation costs, Plaintiff could nevertheless have had very significant costs taxed against her in the 13 unexpected possibility that Class Counsel did not meet its obligation to cover those costs.
14 Additionally, Plaintiff also faced reputational risk in pursuing this matter. In commencing suit 15 involving Babe Lash and Brow— popular products marketed, advertised and distributed nationwide by 16 a well-known company in the cosmetics industry – Plaintiff took the risk associated with attaching her 17 name to a matter very much in the public eye. This required a great deal of courage. A reasonable 18 incentive award is warranted by the reputational risk facing Plaintiff. See Cellphone Cases, 186 19 Cal.App.4th at 1394.

20 Over the past year, Plaintiff has dedicated herself to this matter and has worked diligently with 21 Class Counsel to provide and review documents, monitor the settlement negotiations, the status of the 22 case and settlement administration. See Declaration of Danielle Skarpnes at ¶¶3-4; Farnese Decl. at 23 ¶¶53-56. The personal benefit she will receive as a Settlement Class Member is meaningful (the cash 24 refund) but far less than the opportunity cost of the time she has spent on this case and the significant 25 benefits to the Settlement benefits she secured based on her willingness to come forward and be a class 26 representative. Accordingly, the requested award of $2,500 is reasonable and appropriate for 27 Plaintiff’s efforts.

1 IV. CONCLUSION

2 For the reasons set forth above, Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court grant her motion 3 for attorneys' fees and costs, and service award.
